DAUGHERTY ASKS PRIVILEGE OF DISCLOSING TRUE STORY OF CONDITIONS AT CAPITAL

Called As Witness For Defense In Felder- Means Trial—Judge Lindley Refuses His Request.

Former Attorney General However, Denies Vigor- ously That Accused Dis- cussed Cases With Him.

New York, Jan. 27.—Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general of the United States, called as a witness for the defense today in the Felder-Means trial in federal court, was denied permission by Judge Lindley to tell the details of the situation existing at Washington during the events leading up to the indictment of the defendants.

Mr. Daugherty said that for some time the state of affairs in Washington was such that there were men in the capital who were "hellbound and spellbound."

"I would like at this time to tell the true story of that situation if I am permitted to do so," said Mr. Daugherty. Judge Lindley refused him permission.

Denies Charges. Daugherty denied that Thomas B. Felder, one of the defendants, ever talked to him about indictments then pending against the Crager System company manufacturing glass caskets. Felder and his former client, Gaston B. Means, are being tried on charges of conspiring to bribe high government officials, including Daugherty, in an attempt to quash the glass casket indictments.

"Did Gaston Means ever talk to you about it?" he was asked by Frank P. Walsh, defense attorney.

"He never did," replied Mr. Daugherty.

"Did Jarneke (Means' former secretary) ever talk to you about it?"

"He never did," answered the witness.

"I will ask you whether or not it is a fact that Col. Felder called upon you on one occasion when you were in Washington and spoke to you about the glass casket case?"

"He never did," said Daugherty.

"None of these men ever discussed the glass casket case with me."

Views on Character. Mr. Daugherty testified that he had known Felder for fifteen years and perhaps longer, and that he had been associated with him, and his law firm when Felder was a resident of Atlanta.

Asked what he knew of the reputation of Felder, Daugherty said:

"During the last three or four years I could not testify to the reputation of any man, especially if he held a high public position. The higher and more efficient he is, the more he is subjected to attack. Until this case came up I am quite sure I never heard any reflection upon his (Felder's) reputation."

Did Not Know Names. Mr. Daugherty said he did not know Means personally, and had talked to him only once, when Means spoke to him in the department of justice building.

Mr. Walsh asked the witness if he ever attended a conference at the Waldorf hotel (in this city) in the early part or middle of October, 1922, at which there were present yourself, William J. Burns, Andrew W. Mellon and Gaston B. Means?

Before the witness could answer, Prosecutor Todd objected and Judge Lindley ruled out the question.

Another question ruled out was one in which Mr. Walsh asked Mr. Daugherty "if you ever stated to Gaston Means that there was a shortage or deficit in the republican campaign fund and that you, on that account, with Mr. Mellon and Mr. Burns, would share in a division of $50,000 which was to be collected from the glass casket defendants?"

Mr. Daugherty told of a conference in Washington with several persons, including defendants and their attorneys, interested in the glass casket case.

Tell of Conference. "I knew that this case was the case to be considered," he said, "so I assembled two or three assistants so there would not be any misunderstanding about it and I think I asked Mr. Todd to be present at the conference."

Most of the questions relating to this conference were ruled out. It was at this juncture that Mr. Daugherty appealed to Judge Lindley for permission to tell the "true story concerning this matter."

After answering several questions dealing with the ousting of Means from the government service, Mr. Daugherty left the stand.

NEW BRITAIN MAN IN MAD AUTO CHASE

Stephen Washitz Alleged to Have Hurt Pedestrians —Held Under Bonds

(Special to The Herald.)

Bristol, Jan. 27.—Stephen Washitz, 31 Glen street, New Britain, was captured last night at 9:45 o'clock by Robert L. Hayden of Middle street, prominent realtor of this city, after a mad chase of nearly a mile, when the motor car driven by the New Britain man turned over at the corner of King street and Second avenue in a futile attempt to shake off the relentless pursuer.

He was brought before the local police court this morning on the charge of evading responsibility, reckless driving, and carrying concealed weapons. His case was continued until Saturday morning under bonds of $1,000. He was represented by Attorney George W. Klett of New Britain.

A few minutes before the overturning, Washitz' machine had struck Robert Edwards of 3 Andrew street and Miss Emma Buchard of the same address as the couple were walking along Riverside avenue near Pierce's bridge. Edwards was badly bruised and marked up but the girl escaped with a few bruises. After the accident, Edwards was attended at the Bristol hospital by Dr. Hubert D. Brennan and later in the night was removed to his home. Examination has shown that he did not suffer any serious injuries.

Washitz put on speed after striking the couple and noticed at once that he was being pursued. "Let his machine out," Hayden stuck to the rear of the evading driven and when Washitz eluded his wild ride with his tip over, Hayden brought him to the police station, where he was booked on charges of reckless driving and evasion of responsibility for trial this morning.

Shortly before midnight, Washitz was released under bonds of $1,000, furnished by Bennie Wasiewicz, also of New Britain.

When searched at the police station, Washitz was found to be literally armed to the teeth. A revolver was found in a pocket and in his machine was found a wicked looking hunting knife, which was well over the legal limit of six inches for the blade. Charges of carrying concealed weapons may also be pressed against him. Why he should travel so heavily armed was not revealed by the accused last night. His car was badly smashed when it overturned and was later removed to a garage by a wrecking crew.

Mr. Hayden's coolness in the pursuit and apprehension of the man was praised by the police officials, who complimented him on his fine work.

When being booked last night, Washitz said that he was a garage mechanic and was employed by the S. & F. Motor Co., of New Britain.

It was discovered by the Sisters of the Holy Ghost whose home adjoins the school and a general alarm summoned all available apparatus in the city. Pittsburgh also sent aid. Fire was confined to the school building.

KILLERS' GUNS ARE SHOWN AT INQUEST

Coroner's Jury Investigating Four Cornered Slaying in Herrin

YOUNG'S FUNERAL THURS.

Fully 25,000 Klansmen From Illinois and Other States Are Expected to Attend Service For Dead Man— Thomas' Gun Had Notches.

By The Associated Press.

Herrin, Ill., Jan. 27.—Four revolvers, a cartridge belt and a holster were the first exhibits to face the coroner's jury inquiring today into the deaths of S. Glenn Young, Ku Klux Klan liquor raider, Deputy Sheriff Ora Thomas, Ed Forbes and Hobart Warren on Saturday night.

Thomas' gun, a black automatic with a wooden handle, was the first weapon laid on the table by Coroner George Bell. It was empty. On the right side of the handle two notches had been cut.

Young's guns, two pearl handled automatics, followed. One held a full clip of cartridges. One or two bullets had been fired from the other. No marks were apparent on either revolver.

Forbes' gun was the fourth placed on the table, Warren's being, if he had any, was not found.

The cartridge belt and holster apparently did not belong to any of the weapons as the 12 shells they contained were of a different calibre.

State's Attorney Arlie Boswell warned the newspapermen they were admitted only by sufferance and that they would be excluded unless their reports were fair.

Promises Square Deal

"There have been reported that this was to be a one-sided investigation," he said. "We are excluding the public because we believe in this case that is wise. We are admitting the press so that there can be no possible grounds for charging that this is a star chamber session. We intend to convince everyone that we are going to give a square deal but we insist on a square deal from you."

Relatives of Young announced today his funeral had been postponed until Thursday, pending arrival of relatives.

Big Funeral Thursday

Friends estimate 25,000 will attend the services. Invitations have been sent to every Klavern of the Klan in the state, and to cities in other states.

Said Thomas Shot First

Testifying at the inquest, Henry Peterson of Herrin said he saw Thomas fire the first shot.

Peterson said he was standing on the walk near the European hotel, when Thomas entered the Canary cigar store in the building.

Funeral services for Thomas were held this afternoon. Thomas was buried in his family plot on the south side of the burying ground and Young was to be buried in a concrete vault in the northern section.

Funeral services for Edward Forbes and Homer Warren, Klan sympathizers killed with Young, were held yesterday. Forbes' body was sent to Vergennes for burial, while Warren was buried here.

Picked Own Minister

The Rev. Mr. Meeker of the Presbyterian church, said to be the only Protestant minister in Herrin not a member of the Klan, preached Thomas' funeral service. The two never met, but the slain deputy had expressed a wish to have Rev. Mr. Meeker officiate if anything should happen to him.

Five ministers were named to take part in the services for Young, whose body continued to lie in the First Baptist church today. A cross, electrically illuminated, and a smaller cross of roses were alongside his coffin.

No Demonstration

Major R. W. Davis, commanding the national guardsmen controlling Herrin, announced that no demonstrations would be permitted in connection with the funerals, large crowds were expected to attend both.

Versions of the shooting were becoming more standardized today, but they still could be divided into two groups—those related by Thomas' adherents.

The main points of difference, were as to whether Young or Thomas fired first.

It was related that Thomas entered the cigar store while Young was berating "Lish" Green who Young claimed had denounced him to union coat miners. Green wriggled out of range as Young and Thomas began shooting, which was joined by others on the street in front of the cigar shop. When the smoke cleared Young, Forbes and Warren were dead and Thomas dying.

Sheriff George Galligan announced that he would come to Herrin from Marion with three automobile loads of deputies to attend Thomas' funeral.

AUSTRALIAN RADIO TUNES IN ON KDKA

Pittsburgh Station Sends Hu- man Voice Over 9,000 Miles GREATEST ACHIEVEMENT

Sending Occurred Between 5 and 6 A. M. on 63 Meter Wave—Sydney, Melbourne and British New Guinea Hear Program.

New York, Jan. 27.—A human voice rode the air across the continent today, crossed the Pacific and delivered its message to hundreds of thousands of persons in Australia, more than 9,000 miles away. Officials of the Westinghouse Company through whose station, KDKA, at Pittsburgh, the test was made, declared the achievement to be the greatest radio history.

Cablegrams Received

A cablegram received here several hours after the broadcasting related that the voice had been distinctly heard by radio set owners who had tuned in at Sydney, Australia, and at Rabaul, the capital of British New Guinea. Two amateurs reported having picked the words "wings 9,000 miles at Melbourne, although the main station there failed to receive them because of atmospheric interference.

The messages put on the air for the Australians were from Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press; J. A. M. Elder, Australian commissioner to the United States; Herbert Bayard Swope, executive editor of the New York World; Arthur Brisbane, editor of the New York American, and Frank Munsey, publisher of the New York Evening Telegram-Mail and the New York Sun.

The tests will be continued the remainder of the week.

Davies Arranged Test

Mr. Davies supervised the radio broadcasting of the Firpo-Wills fight to Buenos Aires, a distance of 6,000 miles, which was believed to be a record for long distance air voice transmission up to today's successful broadcasting to Australia.

KDKA, sending at the prearranged time of 5 to 6 o'clock to the morning at which time it was between 8 and 9 o'clock in Australia, broadcast on a wave length of 63 meters.

HALF MILLION DOLLARS FOR NORMAL SCHOOL DORMITORY IS SOUGHT IN HALL'S BILL

POLICE COURT INCOME SHORT OF ESTIMATES

Figured That Fines Would Total $23,000 in Fiscal Year

Unless the last two months of the fiscal year prove exceptional, net receipts from the police court will fall about $5,000 short of the amount estimated in the budget for the year 1924-1925. The police court was figured in the budget to contribute $23,000 to the city treasury, but for the first nine months, only about $18,000 will be realized.

Figures in the office of Clerk Emil J. Danberg show that during the first nine months of the year, the net receipts were $13,817.52. January has been a quiet month in police court and Clerk Danberg said that the receipts for the month will be the lowest in several years.

The motor vehicle department received almost $3,000 more during 1924 in fines for motor vehicle law violations than it did in 1923, a total of $8,006 being turned over to that department. In 1923, motor vehicle violators paid fines of $5,102 that were turned over to the motor vehicle department.

The budget estimate of $1,000 receipts from the city court will be slightly surpassed according to figures in the clerk's office.

The total amount in fines collected by the clerk of the police court during the year 1924 was $31,226. This figure is several thousand dollars below that of last year and the increased amount of money turned over to the motor vehicle department during the year account for the estimated $5,000 shortage in net receipts.

The East Shore Amusement Co., owners of the property appealed from this award and presented a claim to the court of $375,000 for the property. The decision of Judge Brown was generally regarded as favorable to the city. Counsel for the owners were unable to say whether the amusement company would appeal from the court decision.
